Our first textile collection was born from a true passion and love for textiles, colour and nature. Inspired by a trip to Japan exploring its rich cultural heritage, the collection shows an appreciation for the regions autumnal colour palette, and historic use of indigo.

In the studio, patterns begin by hand and evolve through watercolour studies and stencilling. Far removed from their inspirations, each print is reminiscent of its original structure but carefully resurrected. Old patterns recede, and new perspectives are created to make a unique artisanal print.

The collection is digitally printed in Lancashire and we launched new colourways in July 2025.

Our second textile collection is rooted in a love of textiles, colour, and the natural world. Inspired by Scarlett's travels - gathering antique fragments, stories and inspiration - each print begins with these discoveries, carefully reworked, hand-painted, and thoughtfully brought back to life.

In the studio, designs take shape through drawing, watercolour, and stencilling. While they nod to their historical origins, the patterns evolve into something entirely new, familiar forms reimagined with a refined perspective. This collection reflects a deep love of botanicals and colour. The palette is personal, shaped by memories, and influenced by Scarlett's heritage and her father's passion for spices.

Digitally printed in the UK, the collection blends Tradition, craftsmanship.

NAKA
Inspired by an antique cotton fragment we designed a smaller repeat patterned fabric. Originally part of Japanese Indigo workwear, the earthy colourways of this print reflect its Japanese heritage. The faded nature of the print is symbolic of the water-coloured medium it was designed and resonate with its narrative.

KATAGOME
Inspired by an antique textile found in Kyoto, we re-designed this print into a working repeat pattern. An incredibly unusual artefact, the original design was of Indian heritage but stencil dyed in Kyoto in the 1800s. The three different colourways are inspired by Japan's earthy autumnal palette.

KASURI KEI
Inspired by a 18th antique cotton fragment found in Kyoto, the beauty of this print lies in its simplicity. Its name is a nod to Kasuri, a traditional Japanese textile technique known for its soft, feathered patterns created through resist-dyeing. To honour its origins, we chose to print it on a natural hemp & Cotton base cloth.

APRILS ACORN

Originally Inspired by a an 18th-century French block print, this design draws inspiration from traditional Indienne textiles. We created a lighter floral pattern and the whimsical hand drawn botanicals along with the rich spring like palette create an unusual but classical floral print. Its name is inspired by the delicate Acorn detail and Spring like palette.

ANADOLU

Inspired by a handwoven Turkmen Kilim featuring traditional embroidery, this design pays homage to an Anatolian stripe we discovered in Istanbul. Nomadic in spirit, we sought to capture the rhythm, richness, and authenticity of the region's craft and culture. The colour palette, rooted in deep ochres and sunbaked tones, is a tribute to this heritage.

Under Scarlett's leadership, the studio is supported by a multidisciplinary team with expertise across interior design, sourcing, and product design. With over a decade of industry experience and a deep-rooted passion for interiors, Scarlett began her career as Lead Designer at Soho House. Her first project was the acclaimed Soho Farmhouse, followed by key roles in the design of Soho House West Hollywood, Canouan, Mykonos, and Paris.

In her final three years with Soho House, she led the design of Soho House Mumbai, spending extensive time in India, collaborating with local craftsmen, and developing bespoke block prints in Jaipur. These experiences shaped her signature approach to creating timeless, considered spaces.

ABOUT STUDIO SUPPLE

Scarlett's brother, Archie Supple, brings a diverse and complementary skill set to the studio. He oversees interior design with a passion for architectural elements, while having a honed eye for sourcing antiques and unique pieces. Scarlett and Archie, together with their dedicated team, have cultivated a studio known for its collaborative ethos, client-focused mindset, and meticulous attention to detail.

The studio has also launched a growing textile collection, reflecting its commitment to craftsmanship and detail.

With bases in London and Wiltshire, the studio's portfolio includes the restoration of a Hebridean island, elegant London townhouses, and a range of distinctive commercial spaces.
